

JUNE 9 - 10 2007

WINDERMERE MANOR

LONDON

ONTARIO

CROSS-PURPOSES?

International Law and Political Settlements

Over the past two decades, important efforts have been made to bring international law, and international courts, to bear in local conflicts and post-conflict situations. Has this been productive, and is it likely to be so in the future? To some, international law strengthens the cause of justice against political oppression. To others, it impedes the process of achieving negotiated settlements and peace. The conference examines this urgent and topical issue by reflecting on a variety of cases, and by bringing a variety of political and legal perspectives into dialogue.

organizers

VALERIE OOSTERVELD,
LAW, UWO
vooster@uwo.ca

JOANNA QUINN
POLITICS, UWO
jquinn2@uwo.ca

RICHARD VERNON
POLITICS, UWO
ravernon@uwo.ca

speakers

AUDREY BOCTOR
Law, Columbia University

DAVID CRANE
Law, Syracuse University

MARK DRUMBL
Law, Washington and Lee University

JOANNA HARRINGTON
Law, University of Alberta

PATRICIA MARCHAK
Sociology, University of British Columbia

VALERIE OOSTERVELD
Law, The University of Western Ontario

VALERY PERRY
OSCE, Bosnia

JOANNA QUINN
Political Science, The University of Western Ontario

JOSEPH RIKHOF
Department of Justice, Canada

DARRYL ROBINSON
Law, University of Toronto

MARK WELLER
Director, European Centre for Minority Issues